

Professor Stefan Siebert

University of Glasgow & Glasgow Royal Infirmary

Professor Stefan Siebert, MBBCH, FRCP, PhD is Professor of Inflammation Medicine and Rheumatology at the Institute of Infection, Immunity, and Inflammation in the University of Glasgow. He also works as Honorary Consultant Rheumatologist in the Glasgow Royal Infirmary, NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde where he runs specialist psoriatic arthritis (PsA), complex inflammatory tendinopathy and tertiary referral academic clinics.

He leads the spondyloarthritis (SpA) and PsA clinical research programme in Glasgow and is the lead on several national and regional investigator-led studies. Research activities include disease pathogenesis, biomarkers, comorbidities, epidemiology, routine-data linkage, observational cohort studies and interventional studies. He has published widely in peer-reviewed journals.

He is the current Chair of the Versus Arthritis (formerly Arthritis Research UK) Adult Inflammatory Arthritis Research Advisory Group; on the global steering committee of GRAPPA; on the executive steering committees of both BRIT-SpA and BRIT-PACT (British SpA and PsA societies, respectively) and is a member of the Assessment of Spondyloarthritis International Society (ASAS).